

New website links converters with source for high-quality recycled cores

Posted: May 1, 2009

Since the company began 49 years ago in the back of a pushcart on New York's Lower East Side, Paper Tube & Core Inc.'s mission to reprocess and distribute used paper tubes and cores has changed little. The company now brings its focus online through its new interactive website where the Paterson, N.J.-based company proffers the cost savings—as much as 60%—of its high-quality, customized reprocessed cores and supports its strategy in green packaging with success stories. The website will soon offer online ordering.
